

A Community After God's Heart

The Christian Leadership Program for Commissioned Ruling Elders nurtures the gifts of laity to build up the ministry of the local church. Participants benefit from a theological education, including interaction with faculty and other students, via distance education. Distance education combines the flexibility of independent learning with the community of group learning. Therefore, time constraints, scheduling difficulties and geography are no longer barriers to theological study. The online courses are offered in an asynchronous format so students can access their courses at any time day or night. Core classes and advanced courses are offered in both fall and spring semesters, with additional course offerings in the summer.
